

5 Reasons why insurers should integrate with OnBase

By integrating your core systems with the OnBase information management solution, you unleash the full potential of your technology investment.

1 Be more effective in claims processing

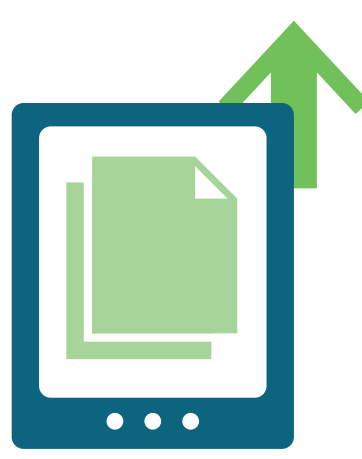

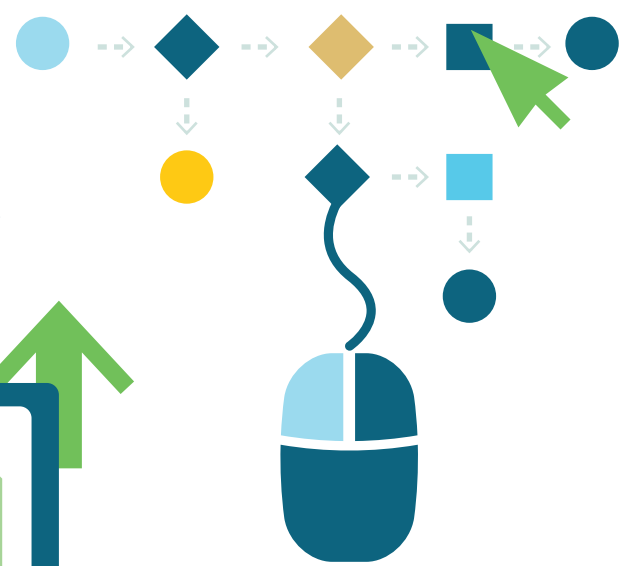

With OnBase, users access critical underwriting policy and claims departments without leaving familiar interfaces. No more searching between systems. You process claims faster and make more informed underwriting decisions

2 Extend your current document management capabilities

It's more than just accessing documents. It's about gaining the complete information management solution capabilities OnBase provides - from capture technology and records management to process - improving workflows and case management solutions. By integrating with OnBase, you immediately begin optimizing your processes.

3 Keep agents and brokers happy

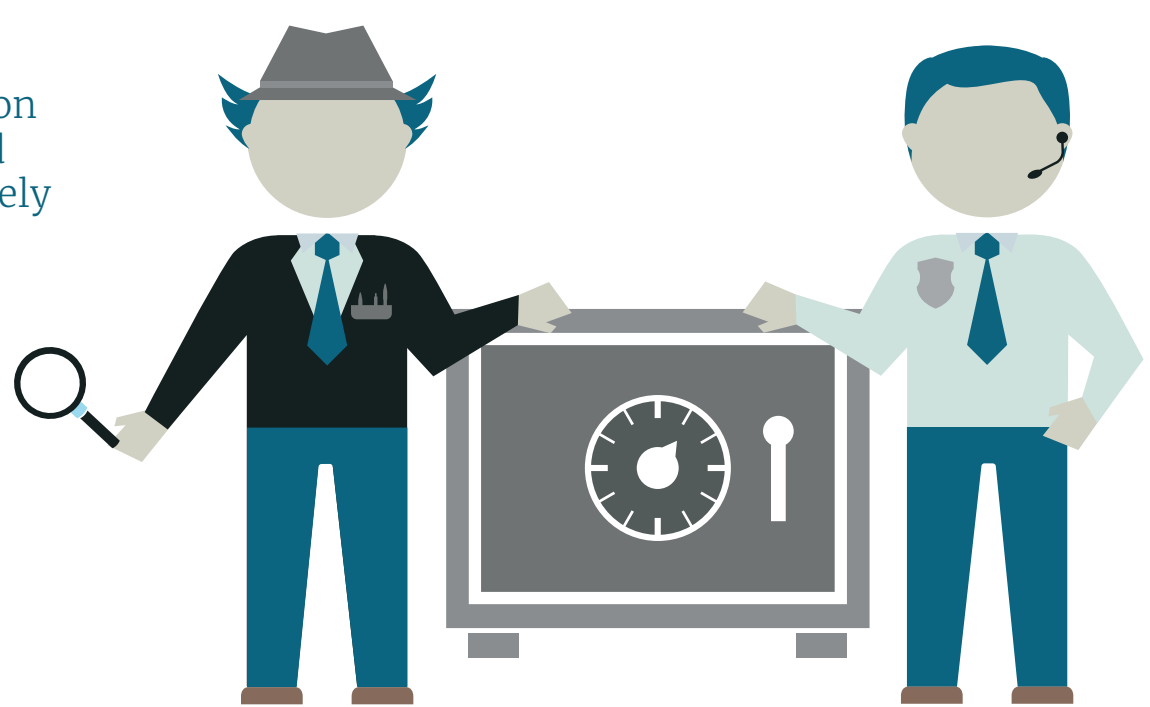

Provide agents with a secure, self-service portal that allows them to submit applications, access relevant documentation and participate in processes.

4 Improve security and compliance

By tracking revision histories, managing retention periods and providing controlled access to all critical documents, OnBase keeps your information secure.

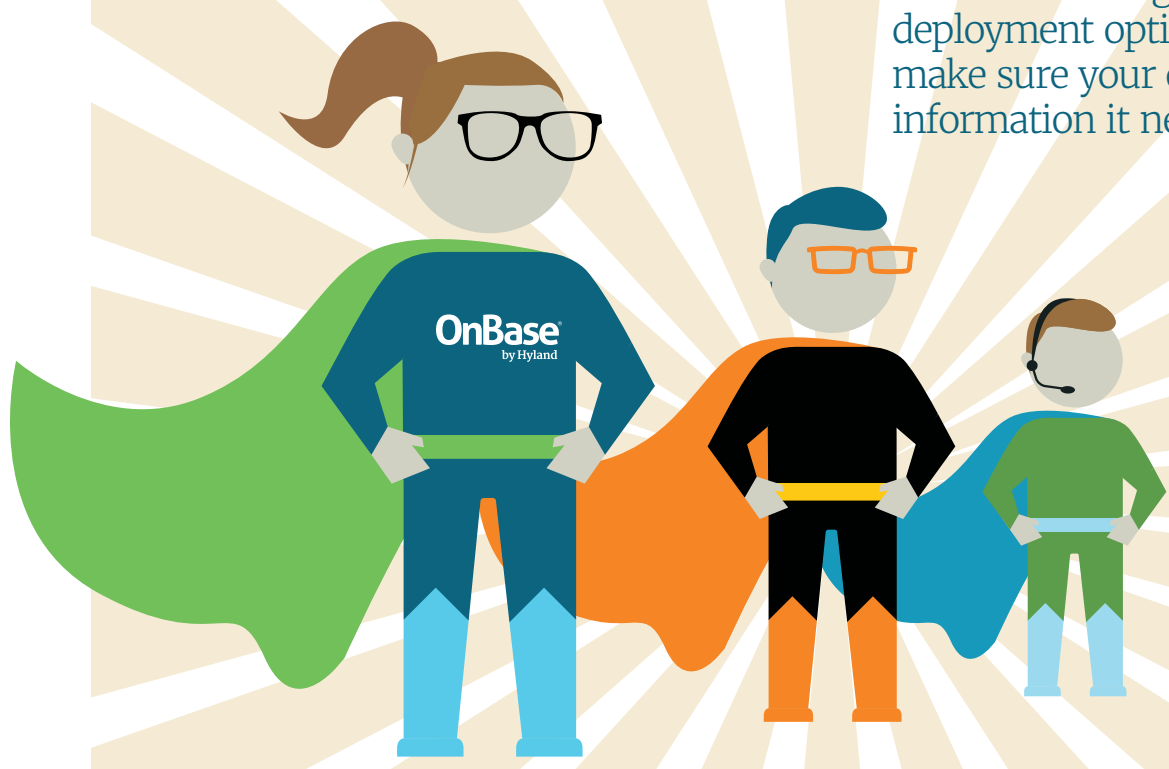

With automated document retention and audit trails that detail who did what, when and why, you proactively deal with compliance issues and make audits stress free.

5 Tap expert advice

With OnBase, you're not just integrating your solutions to make them more powerful. You're also tapping into the expertise of a team with decades of experience helping insurers succeed around the globe.

From consulting and services engagement to flexible deployment options, OnBase professionals are here to make sure your organization has easy access to the information it needs to succeed.
